WEHL is a non-profit organization

Our Mission:

Wings of Eagles Healthy Living (WEHL) is middle Tennessee's only nonprofit organization teaching families about the risks posed by our indoor environments and simple steps to improve quality of life for current and future generations.

What We Do:

Educational Programs for Children

WEHL provides free educational programs for children of all ages. These interactive programs teach children how to recognize indoor pollutants and how to eliminate or reduce them. Each program is age-appropriate and empowers children to improve their health and the health of their families.

Seminars for Community/Civic Groups

WEHL is committed to educating middle Tennesseans about potential indoor toxins, electromagnetic radiation, moisture issues, and the simple solutions that can greatly improve quality of life. From pre-schoolers to professionals, WEHL will present healthy building and living principles to meet the needs of the audience.

Professional Presentations

Architects, Builders, Interior Designers and Electricians are a few of the professions that impact the indoor health of a home. WEHL engages in professional presentations to inform and educate practitioners in other fields about ways they can improve the indoor health of homes and work spaces and the health of the occupants.

Interior Design Services

Typically the focus of interior design has been only on aesthetics and cost. We at WEHL focus on these elements as well, but our primary concern is to design a living space that is healthy for its occupants and the environment. This includes:

- Selection of natural, healthy materials
- Building environmentally healthy ("green") consultation
- Suitable colors selection
- Application of Feng Shui philosophy

Low Cost Home Assessments

According to the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), we spend over 90% of our time indoors and the quality of our indoor environments is one of the top five health risks we face today. WEHL's trained, professional staff can assist middle Tennessee families identify and rectify the health risks in their home through a comprehensive investigation conducted by certified indoor environmentalists. This includes:

- Electromagnetic survey
- Air quality survey
- Evaluation of moisture issues

Construction Consultations

WEHL's trained, professional staff is committed to working with the building community to develop healthy environments. We offer consultation for new construction as well as remodeling projects. Call us today to assist you with your healthy project.
